Artists, Fashion Designers and Interior Design Firms unveil something for everyone...
Snow King Center • Jackson Hole, Wyoming • September 7 – 10

Welcome to a show that honors tradition and encourages fresh perspectives and creativity – a show as spectacularly breathtaking as its surroundings, a show to inspire you and let your imagination run wild.

Exhibit + Sale, encompassing all aspects of the best of Western design. During the Exhibit + Sale you'll meet over 130 artists and designers whose handcrafted works in leather, metal, home accents, woodworking, mixed media, jewelry, and fashion will be showcased and available for purchase directly from the exhibitors.

Retail Row, a unique experience where some of the most sought-after retailers exhibit current trends in a boutique setting. Everyone involved shares an interest in, and passion for, the West. NEW LOCATION!

Designer Show House, where juried artists' creations and custom interior design come alive by integrating one-of-a-kind objects into a home environment. Attendees will enter through a foyer and walk through five professionally designed rooms. Sponsored by B&B Builders and Deanna Briggs of Dream Jackson Hole Sotheby's International Realty. Presented by Mountain Living.

Opening Preview Party, a much-anticipated night for visitors and locals alike provides early entry into the show. This gala celebration begins with an opportunity to shop and meet the artists. Guests view one-of-a-kind creations while sipping signature cocktails and enjoying gourmet bites by Café Genevieve.

Auction, a captivating Winners' Circle Art Auction precedes the Fashion Show, where guests bid on works by a select group of top award winners from previous years.

Runway Fashion Show, a highlight of the sold-out evening is the always stunning Fashion Show. Designers' innovative couture collections are modeled in an intimate runway setting, accompanied by fabulous themes and great music. Sponsored by Ward + Blake Architects.

2017 AWARDS & JURY

CHASE REYNOLDS EWALD

A Western Design Conference enthusiast since the Master Artisans Guild held its first show in the Irma Hotel in Cody in 1992, Chase Reynolds Ewald has been writing about western craftsmanship, food, art, travel, design and lifestyle ever since. She is an active freelancer, sometime speaker and judge, and the author of nine books and two Western Design Conference Sourcebooks.

DARLA WORDEN

Darla Worden is a fifth-generation Wyoming native who has always lived in the West. In her role as editor in chief of Mountain Living and as a longtime fan of the Western Design Conference, she enjoys meeting artists, craftspeople, metalsmiths, leather workers... the interesting people who live and work in the West. She also has written two books and hundreds of articles about art, architecture, travel and design in the region.

MICHAEL J. GULI

Michael J. Guli studied at the School of Visual Arts in New York City where he first was introduced to wearable art. He moved to Colorado in 1976 and started his career as a historic clothing designer for movies, galleries and individuals interested in the West of the 1800s. Some of the movies he worked on are Centennial, The Mountain Men (shot in Jackson), Made in America, The Quick and the Dead and most recently The Hateful Eight. Featured in and written articles for magazines in the States and overseas, Michael Guli's pieces have been shown in museums, notably the Buffalo Bill Museum and the Cody Museum.

SCOTT ARMSTRONG

Scott Armstrong has been a student of art and design for almost 50 years. He has been an artist, illustrator, industrial designer, artisan and craftsman. He exhibited at various juried design shows including the Western Design Conference, the Cody High Style show, and the By Western Hands invitational. He has won several awards including best of show and the Switchback Ranch purchase award from the Buffalo Bill Historical Center in Cody.

TERRY WINCHELL

Terry Winchell is a forty plus year resident of Jackson Hole. He has owned and operated Fighting Bear Antiques for more than 36 years, successfully growing the business from a small antiques store to a nationally recognized gallery. He is an authority on rustic furniture and the author of Thomas Molesworth, "The Pioneer of Western Design", Gibb Smith Books. He has lectured extensively on the subject of Western Design, and was the architect of two Public Television programs.

Game Trail Gatherings

For Kyle Anderson, raw materials collected from the wild provide the perfect medium to convey appreciation for the natural world. His fascination with time and its effect on plants, animals, and landscapes has led him to a unique style he calls "a collaboration with nature." Using wood, antler, artifacts, fossils, and mineral specimens, he creates art and functional pieces that transcend the ordinary experience--carvings, sculptures, chandeliers, tables, lamps, gun racks, home accents, wall art—whatever he or a client can dream up.

ACCENTS

This category encompasses an eclectic grouping of functional art made from antler, ceramics, fiber, glass, leather, metal, or wood. All pieces are usable and would be identified as art by just about any viewer.

J Booth Art

Award winning Wyoming artist Jenny Booth has been honing her skills as a carver since 1985. Her personal challenge is to always strive for a sense of kinetic flow and feel with her one of a kind pieces. Jenny embraces the "backwards" form of art-starting with a solid and taking away what's in her mind's eye into a finished piece of carved art.

John O'Connor

The history of Native Americans is one of John's favorite subjects and studying their history makes his heart stronger. He is constantly inspired by what he reads, by old photographs and museum pieces, and by the understanding and compassion shown by many of the great chieftains. John says, "You are what your heart is," and wants his art work to keep that power and spirit alive.

Marc Taggart & Company

Marc Taggart's interest in Western furniture began at a young age. Marc's father, Lloyd Jr., became a close personal friend of the designer Thomas Molesworth and eventually established Sweet Water Ranch, a company dedicated to restoring original Molesworth furniture and building authentic reproductions in the Molesworth style. Marc joined the company in 1991, and continues the tradition today with Marc Taggart & Company. Calling himself an "orchestrator," Marc has formed relationships with many talented artisans, each fully established in his or her own area of western design.

Rebellion Bags

Stephanie Wheat's designs originated while living in the Southwest. Her inspiration came from a dream where she took a pair of scissors to a red chair and made a handbag out of it. She woke up, bought a piece of leather, riveted it together, strung a belt she'd made through two openings and pre-sold seven that day at a trunk show. Self-taught, her son inspired her to stay at home full time. Each one is made with love for you to enjoy.

LEATHER

Many Tears

"My floor piece this year needed to be extra special, so I chose to combine a beaded quilt with a winter buffalo hide, this art representing dedication and strength. It takes many hands and hearts to have brought this show not only through 25 years, but to reach this level of excellence. To the sponsors, owners, the countless people 'behind the curtain,' and, last but not least, to the creativity and years of devotion of the artists – thank you from the bottom of my heart! Here is to 25 more years!"

Cayuse Western Americana

Born and still based in Richmond, Virginia, Susan Adams received her MFA from Cranbrook Academy of Art and has spent more than 20 years refining her craft. Her gold and silverwork is inspired by Wyoming pack trips. Versatility, skill, and meticulous attention to detail allow Susan to design and produce unique decorative objects, jewelry, hollowware, and commissioned projects, such as the cowgirl logo for The National Cowgirl Museum. Susan is a three-time award winner at the Western Design Conference.

GILMORE METALSMITHING STUDIO AND FORGING ATELIER

From hand-pounded silver to hand-forged iron, this category encompasses heirloom quality pieces of art that any collector or homeowner would be proud to display.

Dry Creek Design

History is what inspires Garry's work, and he labors to preserve it through his welded metal sculptures. The Sand Hills of Nebraska where Garry was born and lives has provided unique metal pieces to build his one-of-a-kind sculptures. Garry was named Best Metal Artist at the 2014, and 2015 Western Design Conference. His work can be seen at Hill City, South Dakota and in Ogallala, Nebraska.

Gilmore Metalsmithing Studio and Forging Atelier

This year marks Glenn's 20th consecutive year of participation in the Western Design Conference. His reputation for creating award winning designs and visually stunning forged metalwork has earned him commissions across the country and abroad. He has won numerous awards for his work including several at the WDC. In 2012, 2013, and 2016, Glenn won Best Artist in Metal at the Western Design Conference. In 2012, he was nominated for a United Artists Fellowship, one of 300 artists selected in the nation.

Aaron Laux Design

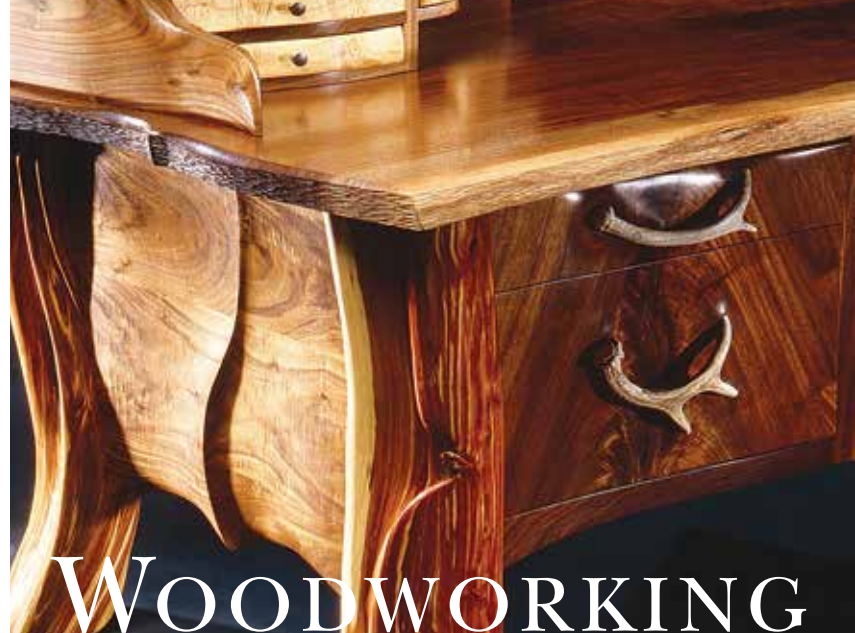

Aaron views his creations as sculpture—especially the more functional pieces. He works predominantly in wood; he also employs other mixed media such as glass, stone, bark, paper, and metal. His inspiration comes from the desire to interpret the mysteries of life and nature, and to express the emotions and impressions that these mysteries evoke.

WOODWORKING

NORSEMAN DESIGNS WEST

Rustic furniture is not necessarily simple; It is timeless, complex, and designed with style and quality to endure through the decades.

Adirondack Workshop

Drew's introduction to Adirondack Rustic Style was during summers at his family camp in the Adirondack Mountains. It was there he was struck by the purity and "inherent rightness" of the rustic furniture and architecture that is found throughout the region. Today he designs and creates rustic pieces in his Woods Bay Mountain studio.

WOODWORKING

Brian Boggs Chairmakers, Inc.

Brian Boggs doesn't think up new designs. They are already there waiting for him to find them. After decades of practice and study, Brian finds his work usually takes the form of a chair or table. The creative process involved in bringing them about is focused on opening to what is coming in rather than thinking about what he might design. Only when there is a balance of shapes, dimensions, and patterns of grain, creating a feeling of peace and comfort, is a design complete.

D.A. King Design

So much of the inspiration Doug has for his designs in wood come from his love of the natural landscapes. Now living back in Missoula, Montana, he has set up a small furniture shop. He takes inspiration from the strength, grace and shape of a tree and tries to translate that in the shape and form of his furniture.

Felton + Ferguson Woodworking

The collaborative work of Felton + Ferguson involves both design and craft. Their pieces highlight traditional woodworking techniques while finding contemporary lines. Native reclaimed woods of the West are layered in depth and history. Hand tools are used rather than machines, shaping their furniture into sculpture with a function.

Finch Woodworks

Jordan opened Finch Woodworks in 2004, specializing in timber framing and fine carpentry. In addition to his custom work with clients he was a professor of timber framing at the American College of the Building Arts, Charleston, SC, 2012-2015. He continues his involvement with The Timber Framing Guild through the projects committee and teaching workshops. Jordan's goal is simple, "to grow as a craftsman and provide the best work possible."

Henneford Fine Furniture

Nestled on the shore of Flathead Lake in northwest Montana is the home and shop of self-taught woodworking artist Steve Henneford. "I believe that wood is beautiful, warm and timeless. I like to build simple elegant furniture with flowing lines that is both beautiful and comfortable," he says. Steve finishes each piece by hand, rubbing oil into the furniture to bring out the natural beauty of the wood and create a finish smooth as glass.

HowKola Furniture by Tim Lozier

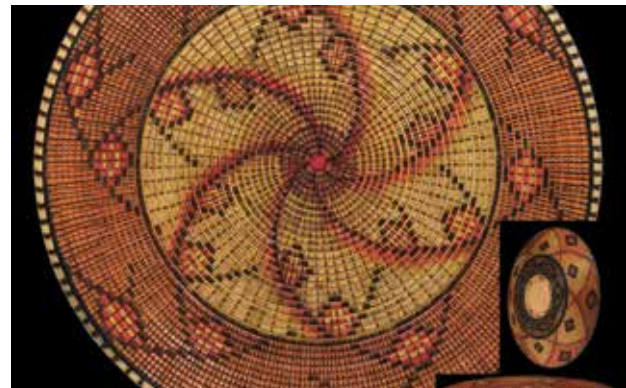

Furniture—when Tim hears that word he thinks of creativity. He started in the furniture business 20 years ago building Molesworth reproductions. To this day that style remains the most popular type of furniture he builds. In 1998, he started his own business, How Kola Furniture, and began putting his own spin on Molesworth designs. This has given him a great deal of creative freedom and plenty of ideas to upgrade his style of furniture.

Keoni Carlson

Keoni (Jon) Carlson re-imagines wood as woven basketry, creating illusions that invite touch and participation. Working from his Colorado mountain studio, the artist uses texture, color and negative space to hand carve unique, heirloom artwork inspired by native culture storytelling and legend. His art is optimistic, sometimes whimsical, always delicious.

McCarty Woodworks

Coley McCarty has a passion for creating unique art out of rare pieces of nature. He combines the textures of antler sheds from Elk, Fallow, and Axis deer to create a strong base, then tops it with exotic slabs of wood inlaid with beautiful minerals. Coley's favorite hardwood is the Texas Mesquite because of the complexity of color.
