Remembering Ralph McHenry FROM PAGE 61

serving in Vietnam with the Navy Seabees, he traveled the world before returning to his hometown. He spent 28 years as an antique dealer before purchasing Montana Expressions in the late 1990s and heralding the company into a new era.

McHenry's daughter, Addi Sires, has taken over ownership of the showroom and design firm and says her father and his distinct style will be sorely missed. "We called him the family historian," she says. "He was always interested in antiques. It was baked into him. His style really spoke to the Bozeman, Montana lifestyle and modern-rustic home."

"I look forward to continuing my dad's legacy," she adds, "and honoring the impact he had on the interior design community in Bozeman, as well as bringing Montana Expressions into the next generation of home decor." •
