WELCOME TO WDC 2014

Welcome to the SourceBook of the 2014 Western Design Conference—the preeminent exhibition and sale of museum-quality, functional art in the genre of western design. The finest western-influenced artists from across the country apply to be one of over a hundred exhibitors showcasing their one-of-a-kind works, pieces that capture the essence of both the old and the new West.

This year features a new venue for home furnishings and $17,400 in cash prizes donated by our generous sponsors. The Western Design Conference was established 22 years ago by western art enthusiasts and continues to perpetuate the best traditions of western design and craft. Everyone involved shares an interest in and a passion for the West.

If you think the splendor of a Jackson Hole autumn is unique, wait until you meet our artists! They will all be on hand during the Exhibit + Sale to answer questions, discuss their work, and perhaps even inspire you to let your imagination run wild.

Welcome to a show that honors tradition and encourages fresh perspectives and creativity—a show as spectacularly breathtaking as its surroundings. Welcome to Jackson Hole!

Cayuse Western Americana

Growing up as the son of antique dealers in Santa Fe, New Mexico, Jack had the opportunity to examine early Pueblo and Navajo jewelry, and even earlier pieces from their Spanish mentors. He created his line of unique stamped ID bracelets combined with leather, and the rest is history. All of Jack's unisex pieces are completely hand-hammered, hand cut, shaped and stamped by his hands, and all have the feel of an old friend right from the start.

Furniture—when Tim hears that word he thinks of creativity. He first started in the furniture business 20 years ago building Molesworth reproductions. To this day that style remains the most popular type of furniture he builds. In 1998, he started his own business, Howkola Furniture, and started to put his own spin on Molesworth designs. This has given him a great deal of creative freedom and plenty of ideas to upgrade his style of furniture.

John Gallis is known for his choice of materials, his tendency to carve edges, and his preference for curved lines over straight. The award-winning artist has more than 44 years of woodworking experience. He says, "I enjoy working with different woods. Like people, they have different characteristics and scents. You shouldn't try to change a person into something he's not; I try not to machine the wood so much that you forget it was once a tree."

The 2014 WDC Exhibit + Sale debuts the inaugural Designer Show House

STORY BY SUZANNA CULLEN HAMILTON

The 2014 Western Design Conference Exhibit + Sale includes many new changes to the longstanding and esteemed show in Jackson Hole. This year the show will incorporate a stronger focus on home and fashion.

One of the most significant additions this year includes the Designer Show House on the exhibit floor. Montana woodworker and builder Justin Palmer will create a timber-framed home including shingles made from cedar that was part of The Big Burn in 1910. "I've held onto this red cedar root for years waiting for the right project, and this is it," says Palmer.

Designers will display not only their own talents and wares in the rooms, but one-of-a-kind pieces by exhibiting artists will also be incorporated into the spaces. With a strong and diverse group of participants, the Designer Show House promises to add an exciting spark to the show.

Master Class

Gemstone Tile is the only company in the world using turquoise from the renowned Kingman Mine in Arizona. Handcrafted jewelry-grade turquoise is custom-cut for each client. With over 500 variations in color, Gemstone Tile brings exquisite beauty and rarity to the WDC Designer Show House.

GEMSTONE TILE

For over 25 years, Stockton & Shirk Interior Designs has been a design presence in Jackson, known for their elegance and sophistication. Their projects include both residential and commercial clients throughout Teton Valley and beyond. With a passion for the West and an unexpected mix of western, classic, and modern elements suffused with inviting colors, Stockton & Shirk create exceptional spaces reflecting each client's personal style.

STOCKTON & SHIRK INTERIOR DESIGNS

Fighting Bear Antiques has been a fixture in Jackson since opening in 1981. With a focus on Thomas Molesworth furniture, the shop carries rustic and Western furniture. Owner Terry Winchell is the author of two books, including Molesworth: The Pioneer of Western Design. Run by Terry and his wife Claudia, the shop has expanded to carry Native American decorative arts as well as historical Western and wildlife art.

FIGHTING BEAR ANTIQUES

The New West

Owner Kate Binger opened Dwelling in Jackson in 2011 to reflect her design style of "Transitional Eclectic." Having lived in California, Binger quickly learned the value of researching all aspects of design. She travels throughout the year and finds inspiration in a myriad of styles. Clean lines, rich textures, and vibrant pops of color are Binger's signature elements. Dwelling is a boutique gift, furniture and interior design studio specializing in new construction, remodels, furnishings, artwork and accessories. The featured artwork is provided by a local Jackson gallery, Astoria Fine Art.

DWELLING

For over 35 years, Ballou Dawg American Furnishings has offered one-of-a-kind furniture made by New Mexico craftsman and owner Ray Renfroe. Signature pieces are handmade from wormy maple, a naturally-distressed wood with a beautiful grain.

BALLOU DAWG AMERICAN FURNISHINGS

BallouDawg's design style and philosophy include organic elements, and range from modern rustic to the unexpected. Their creations include furniture, functional art and sculpture, many of which incorporate unique accents such as copper and antler.

Linda Rumsey's father was a blackjack dealer at The Wort Hotel, and today she and her husband Ryan continue the family's long association with Jackson through their company, Wild West Designs. Specializing in custom lighting and antler chandeliers, Wild West Designs creates pieces for both corporate and residential installations. A free-flowing antler canopy with filtered lighting installed in a Santa Fe restaurant was featured in Architectural Digest. Wild West Designs carries custom furniture by Green Gables made of turn-of-the-century aged barn wood, and is able to ship internationally.

WILD WEST DESIGNS

The annual Western Design Conference Exhibit + Sale begins on Thursday, September 4 with an Opening Preview Party, and the show continues through Sunday, September 7. For tickets and information, visit WesternDesignConference.com.
